RiverCity Internet Group buys Maryland ISP

St. Louis based RiverCity Internet Group has acquired Online Gateway (www.olg.com), a Maryland based Internet service provider, for an undisclosed amount.

Online Gateway has served customers in the Baltimore-Washington corridor since 1994. Brian Matthews, CEO of RiverCity Internet Group, said "The acquisition of Online Gateway affords River City Internet Group an excellent presence in this region, and allows us to sell other services to them as well."

River City Internet Group (RCIG) is an Internet Service Provider holding company. RCIG was founded in 2001 and invests in companies that are predominately focused on providing businesses with Internet products and services. In addition to traditional hosting and access services, RCIG offers software development and wholesale back office and software services to other ISPs. River City Internet Group has four wholly owned subsidiaries:

- 1) Primary Network (<http://www.primary.net>)
- 2) Hostirian (<http://www.hostirian.com>)
- 3) EVAD Solutions (<http://www.evadsolutions.com>)
- 4) IntraISP (<http://www.intraISP.com>)

Online Gateway was founded in 1994 to provide quality Internet services in Southern Maryland and Washington D.C. From their first customer through today, their ongoing focus has been to provide high quality service at an affordable price, all with particular attention to customer service. Today, Online Gateway provides services to customers throughout Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia and now offers business-class and residential services in thousands of communities across the country.
